Biting the Bullet: How e-learning can help 'develop a capable population'

Chaired by: Rod Ashley FRSA and Christopher Williams FRSA

Tuesday 21st September 2004
Sketty Hall, Swansea 4.00 pm for 4.30 pm

Keynote speaker
Professor Norah Jones, University of Glamorgan

At its best, e-learning makes learning accessible to people who are geographically distant from traditional providers by transcending time and place, it can inspire those who have been left uninspired by traditional approaches and it can provide opportunities for collaboration between learners and a partnership of providers. At its worst, e-learning simply dumps traditional learning material into a medium which can leave learners unsupported and demotivated.

Join, i-earn, Morganite Electrical Carbon Ltd, Swansea College, University of Glamorgan, Ivy Learning Software and many others to share good practice and discuss this exciting topic.

Cost: £10 including wine and canapés at 7pm
